Join Us for “The Shape of What Comes Next”

In just five days, Triangle will conduct a free webinar, “The Shape Of What Comes Next,” on how the current moment will shape the future of private, independent education around the world. This live session will be held twice so that our clients outside North and South America may join synchronously from their time zones, and the repeat session will occur just six days after the first.

One of the macro trends we will discuss (spoiler alert!) is that the COVID-19 pandemic will have a very, very long tail, with consequences that will take years or even decades to play out. Neither we nor anyone else can predict your specific enrollment number in September 2021 or 2022 (that would be a micro trend), but we can help you see the story arc behind the big picture of how the pandemic will reshape almost everything (that’s the macro part) including demand and enrollment.

Join us at either session by following the appropriate link below.
